Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

5. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Japanese Patent Abstract JP-08119790 A by Umeki (JP'790 A).

The Japanese patent abstract '790 A teaches a Czocharlski apparatus, comprising a pulling shaft which is divided to an upper and a lower shaft connected to each other by a wire there between, and a means to lift and lower the shaft, and a weight sensor. The lower shaft is installed on the upper end of a force bar (e.g. made from a carbon material) connected to each other by a wire. A number of ceramic steel balls or a guide collar made from a carbon material may be placed between a guide shaft, which surrounds the upper and the lower crystal, the wire, and the force bar.

The difference being that the Japanese patent abstract '790 A does not teach a plurality of collars. However, in the absence of unobvious results, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to determine through routine experimentation the optimum, operable apparatus limitations in order to ensure proper orientation. Note, that "Duplication of parts was held to have been obvious". In re Harza 124 USPQ 378. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Felisa Hiteshew whose telephone number is (571) 272-1463.
